"GRAND GESTURE."

WOMAN'S PROTEST AGAINST PROHIBITION.

One of the most amusing dialogues in Prohibition history is recorded in a "grand gesture" against the 18th (Prohibition) Amendment made by Mrs. Herbert D. Robbins, the wife of a New York manufacturing chemist, who has returned to New York from Europe in the Cunard liner Aquitania.

When the liner docked and Customs inspector came to look over Mrs. Robbins's luggage, sh said:

I have twelve bottles of liquor in that bag. Inspector: You can't bring liquor in, you know. Mr. Robbins: I know. I never intended to. If I had, I certainly would not have told you.

Inspector (opening bag): cortainly looks fine stuff, but I must confiscate it.

EDUCATION THEORY

EFFECT OF FRESH DISCOVERIES OF SCIENCE.

USE OF LEISURE.

Views about what is desirable or necessary in education vary much, and change with the times. At present boys and girls are trained to become so far efficient that they may reasonably be expected to develop into citizens capable of earning their own living in numerous occupations. The elementary schools turn out hundreds of thousands of children each year ready to find places in the world of industry. Private schools and colleges, central, secondary, and grammar schools, and the public schools of the country give additional education to multitudes, aiming to fit them for work that demands more intelligence than the "hewing of wood and drawing of water." All children do not conform to these initial ideas. Some climb from the lower schools to the highest positions in trade, commerce, and the professions. the brainy youth doors open in magic fashion. But the point is that all are supposed, following upon their years at school, to devote the bulk of their energy and the main portion of their time to a set task whose successful accomplishment will represent so much in feed, clothing, comfort, housing accommodation, &c. Their teachers, whether education has comprised vocational training or not, have had that future in their mind's eye. Work in some form or other is to be one of the principal functions of

There are signs that the theory of education thus roughly outlined will not always hold good, that, indeed, it may not hold good within the lifetime of children now at Poole, where an ambitious towntionising the world of industry, ed. Box Car 246,947 Sees World

Travelling over fifty thousand miles between January and October in twenty States and on thirty different United States railways is the history of the journeyings of Canadian Pacific Box Car 246,947 during the current year to date. Born in Hamilton, Ont., last December and carrying fifty tons of freight at a load, he was greeted with cuthusiasm when he crossed the border late that month with a cargo for delivery on the Michigan Central beyond Detroit. Thereafter he went into servitude to American interests who could not part with this Canadian cargo-carrier so much newer and better than the usual run of American cars. He travelled east, south, and middle west of the continent thru Chicago, Boston, New York, Cleveland, Washington, Philadelphia, Youngstown Boston, New York, Cleveland, Washington, Philadelphia, Youngstown Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Wheeling, Akron, Atlanta, Miami, and many other cities, and if box cars could talk he would tell some gripping stories of adventures in bitter cold and sunny warmth, in the blue grass country of Kentucky, the roaring steel and coal towns of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, the vast stretches of the wheat belt, and in the shadows of ocean liners on Atlantic, and Gulf coasts. Truly, it might be said of him, in an adaptation of the U.S. Navy slogan: "Join the freight department and see the world."

A grave decision has to be taken

COMPANY'S APPEAL.

Income-Tax on Govt. Grant.

The Court of Appeal week allowed the appeal by Seaham Harbour Dock Co. from a decision of Mr. Justice Rowlatt dismissing an appeal by the Seaham Harbour Dock Company on a case stated by the General Commissioners of income-tax for the Easington Ward Division of the County of Durham.

The appellants appealed against the following assessments to in-£85,101. The sole question for sioners were entitled to find that a grant of money received by the company in the circumstances set out in the case was not capital, but income, and was a proper item to be credited to the incomings of the company's trade when computing the profits thereof.

On July 31, 1923, the company obtained an Act of Parliament (the Seaham Harbour Dock Act, 1923) to enable them to extend their docks at Seaham Harbour. Work thereon was begun shortly afterwards, the cost being estimated at £152,000. The Act allowed. the company to raise not more than was obtained from the Treasury under the Trade Facilities Act, 1921, the Treasury taking Debenture stock for that amount. Of the balance required the Marques of Londonerry advanced £50,000 and Londonderry Collieries, Limita ed, £25,000.

On November 6, 1928, the Unemployment Grants Committee, in reply to an application by the company, stated that they were prepared to sanction a grant quivalent to half the interest at a rate not exceeding an average of 51/2 per cent. a year on approved expenditure met out of loans (not exceeding £152, 000) for a period of two years. Provision was made for periodical remittances, and sums were paid in the four years under review amounting in all to £5,700. The

The company contended, inter alia, that the grant was made by a tion for arriving at the amount of formula. grant to be paid. There was no trade in the material years when Committee should be treated as exhaustive practical sea going tests. It is a British invention, designed to eliminate the resistance and eddy disturbance caused by the detrimental effect of the screw propeller on the customary type of rudder. This waste of energy is substantial, and the power that is saved by its elimination can be utilised to give a higher speed to ships, or, if preferable, less power need be generated for the speed required. The new steamer, Tolworth, of 2,050 come-tax: 1925-26, £191; 1926-27, tons dead-weight capacity has been £2.178; 1927-28, £16,709; 1928-29, fitted with the Ayre "propeller" rudder. On the official speed trials the Court was whether the Commis- the results proved conclusively that considerable improvements on the ordinary type of rubber were ob- Hop Sang, British str., 1,359 tons, tained. As-a result of this invention, the speed of the vessel in fully loaded condition was increased from 10 knots to 1034, knots with the same power, based on carlier results of highly efficient vessels of the same class, as that required for 10 knots speed. To appreciate the value of this extra three-quarters of a knot of speed, under normal conditions it requires a considerably greater amount of power, to attain this than the same amount of increase of speed would require at a lower basis £75,000 by Debentures, and £75,000 speed. In the Tolworth, by reason of her dimensions and form, the advance in speed from 10 to 10% knots would require an increase of about 30 per cent. of horse-power, and corresponding fuel consumption. The Tolworth is also fitted with an Ayre "propeller" stern-post, the design of which is based on similar principles to those in the new rudder. Remarkable economies in propulsion have al ready been proved for this additional invention in a large number of vessels, but this is the first occasion when a combination of the

MOTOR SHIPS.

EDUCTION IN TONNAGE BUT SATISFACTORY POSITION.

In presenting our usual sumnary of the motor shipbuilding position based on Lloyd's Quarterly Returns issued last month, (says) the Motor Ship) it has to be mentioned that the figures relating to Russian construction are not available, and as 95 per cent. of the ships being built under the Soviet regime at the end of June were motor vessels totalling 139,011 tons this fact naturally diminishes, to a certain extent, the proportion of motor to total ton-

The percentage of motor to total tonnage of the whole world is now 61, which is precisely the figure three months ago, excluding Russia, whilst for the United Kingdom it is 57 per cent. In this country the percentage has increased from 45 to 57, and for the whole world from 54.5 to 61. It is not fully realized that the motor tonnage under construction is greater than it was 12 months ago, whereas steam tonnage has decreased by over 20 per cent. In the United Kingdom the position is more striking, for whereas motor tonnage is practically the same as at the end of Fletcher, Prof. E. K. Tratman, Mr. September 1929. steam tonnage S. Kudo, Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Mr. building has fallen 327,000 tons P. Gasille, Mr. L. M. Gasille, Mr. gross, or about 40 per cent. several years now there has been Willy Rieser, Mr. B. G. There is practically no diminution in the tanker tonnage under construction, compared with three months ago, the motor vessels, namely, 122 of 903,144 tons gross, representing about 90 per cent. of the total. Of these, 62 of 459,518 Marseilles, London, Hull, Hamburg, tons gross are being built in British yards, but there, is a considerable tonnage still on order which has in commerce within the last year not yet been laid down.

GIRL STAR'S OPINION OF WILLIAM HAINES.

DIFFICULTIES IN ACTING.

"Every time one plays opposite William Haines one is playing opposite a new man."

So declares Leila Hyams. heroine of "The Girl Said No, Haines's new Metro - Goldwyn-Mayer talking picture which will sonage of perfection. open to-morrow in the Queen's Theatre. Not long ago she was his heroine in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," and she says that the Haines characterisations of that picture and his present vehicle are as difficult as day and night.

"There," she says, "he was a daredevil," serious enough in love. but relying on his own wits and supremely confident that they'd pull him through any difficulty. In "The Girl Said No," he's a graduate just facing business life and he watches it like a boxer, because he knows that he has formidable competition. There is a depth to the character that is really inspiration.

Miss Hyams has the part of the office secretary in the brokerage firm where Haines gets his first job and starts to face the responsibilities of life. Sam Wood directed the production in which details of wall street and "Big Business" mingle with a rapidfire romance that culminates in a breakneck automobile elopement.

"When Billy starts comedy," says Miss Hyams, "the hardest thing in the world to do is to keep from laughing in the wrong place and spoiling the scene; in fact, sometimes it's almost agony to subdue a laugh when he pulls some extemporaneous trick. There are a lot of them in this picture. But on the other hand, there were scenes, such as the episode of his father's death, when he realizes his responsibilities, that bring a catch in the throat - also dangerous in talking pictures. So after al working opposite Billy has its drawbacks when he really starts to act."

"DOUGH BOYS."

The truth of the saying that a man isn't appreciated in his own country was brought home to Sally Eilers, the girl chosen to appear opposite Buster Keaton in his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy, "Dough Boys," which is who are starred in the picture, dramatic cross-cut at the beginat the Queen's Theatre.

This surprise, both to herself and Hollywood, has led to any number of picture offers and a besieging of letters from her fans asking how she was able to receive this plaudit

In her native, girlish manner she outlined her method of living which included a rigid control of her diet of body mind. Without a restricting influence forbidding her indulgence in sweets or night life, she has laid out a schedule for herself with the results that she has been classified as a per-

California fruits are included in her eating schedule with stress laid to the health-giving qualities of grape fruit juice - and a trainer's routine of walking keeps her on her feet for thirty miles a day.

Appearing in "Dough Boys" with Miss Eilers are Cliff Edwards, Edward Brophy, Victor Potel, Arnold Korff, Frank Mayo, Pitzy Katz and William Steele. Edward Sedgwick directed. The story presents riotous adventures of Keaton as a rookie, starting with his experiences on the transport which takes him to France and continuing with his mishaps in the front-line trenches.

"CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD."

The Immortal march of the Men of Marseilles is one of the most dramatic high-lights of history, and in the Universal all-sound musical romance "Captain of the Guard." which is now being screened in the Central Theatre, this heroic march is shown in all of its gripping immensity.

It was this handful of nondescript heroes which turned the tide of battle in the Revolution from defeat to victory for the revolutionists, and the manner in which they fought and won is depicted with startling realism in the tremendous conflict shown in the picture. Only 500 strong, they marched from their home, Marseilles, in the South of France, clear to Paris, arriving just in the nick of time to hurl themselves into the fray. They gave new courage to their comrades who were being thrown back by the King's armies, and such was their indomitable spirit, even after their forced march, that the day was theirs.

Such is the climax of "Captain of the Guard"—a climax which is approached through one of the most romantic, one of the most appealing love stories ever filmed. Laura La Plante and John Boles, during the course of which Boles's | ning of the French Revolution.

'NATURE COLONIES.' CULT SPREADS FROM GERMANY TO FRANCE AND ITALY.

The German vogue of "nature" be broadcast to-day from is being put into practice in dif- metres:ferent parts of the country.

A Nature Union with about one thousand members has been established at Milan, with an executive committee composed thiefly of lawyers and doctors.

The "spiritual head" of the Union is a veteran of ninety-four, The Maid of the Mountainsonce a brilliant cavalry officer, who now leads a frugal and ascetic life, partaking only of vegetables which he eats lying down, like the ancient Romans. There are no chairs in his house; he stands up even to write, and daily takes long walks to remote spots, where he discards his clothing, and, apparently, plays at The Merry Widow-Selections, being Adam. The Union aims at having one rational type of dress material and one type of garment-which is to be short. The Union also aims at getting possession of large enclosed grounds somewhere near Melodious Memories-Pot Pourri, Milan, where even the rational standardised garment may be dispensed with without attracting at- Andante for Flute & Orchestra, tention from the police.

COMMUNISM. RED MEMBERSHIP DECLINE IN

Figures published in the Moscow

newspaper Pravda indicate that the Communist parties in the most important European countries, except that in Germany, which remained stable, experience substantial declines in membership in the last two years, in spite of the economic difficulties which the Communists naturally utilised for the purposes of their agitation.

From the middle of 1928 until February, 1930, the British Communist Party declined from 9,000 to 3,200 the French from 52,000 to 38,000, the Czecho-Slovak from 150,000 to 35,000, while the German party, with 124,000, showed no

Dr. Welldon, Dean of Durham, spoke in an interview on November Kiss and 6 of the view expressed by the Bishop of Durham, Dr. Hensley Henson, that it might be wise to discontinue the observance of Armistice Day. Dr. Welldon said:

There are stories of hermits having lived in caves in the district for years, and the fact that matches and a piece of candle were found in this instance suggests that the dead man may have lived in the cave for some time before his death, which is believed to have occurred some 25 years ago.

Clothing hung around the skeleton and there was a pair of hobusil boots at the feet. Other articles found included a small quantity of silver and coppers, a silver watch, and a fountain pen, but, nothing likely to lead to identification.

RIDDLE OF RETURN OF EROS.

Too Many Fingers in Piccadilly Pie.

AN EVENT IN HISTORY.

Some day, about the time when newspapers begin to record the deaths of the last long-lived veterans of the Great War, an unfamiliar statue will arise in Piccadilly. "What's this"? will ask the public. "Who put that there"? will demand the Press. "Mystery Statue Comes to London."..

Experts, having examined the bronze cast, will certify the work to be nineteenth or possibly twentieth century, and Burlington House will suggest that the sculptor-believed not to be Epsteinundoubtedly drew on the mythology of the Greeks. Then, within day or two, a letter signed "Nonagenarian" will be printed in some newspaper affirming that the correspondent vaguely recalls seeing as a boy a similar statue in the Circus, known (if memory is faithful) as Eros.

After that, events will move fast, and it will be established that Westminster City Council, together with the L.C.C. and certain other cherished old institutions of the capital, thinking to give London a huge surprise, are jocularly at the bottom of the whole affair.

Lightning Legislators. Everyone knows the fable of the boy who cried "Wolf"; nobody took any notice of him in the end. So it is about Eros; every newspaper, on good official authority, has announced at least fifteen times in the last five years that Gilbert's handiwork is about to return. It would be tiresome to say so again, even were the "damnable Iteration" true. But perhaps people still care to know how London's Deliberative Bodies, London's Lightning Legislators, are getting on. Westminster City Council, the London County Council, the Ministry of Transport, the London Traffic Advisory Committee, the Metropolitan Police, the Commissioners of Crown Lands and the Underground Company all have frozen finger in the Piccadilly ple. The last three may be exonerated. having done their part, but the first four are still playing the trusty and archaic game of "passed to you, please."

On August 11, the Ministry of Transport stated that the final layout of Piccadilly Circus had been approved, and that there was no further obstacle to the return of the Shaftesbury Memorial. Workmen were indisputably seen in the Circus on the morning of the 15th. They had their breakfast there, drilled up portions of the road, and then vanished without trace.

Yes-No-Yes. Now the Ministry of Transport has admitted that there was a mistake. The Traffic Advisory Council had not been definitely satisfied with the lay-out. So some more experiments were conducted and in this way, after a period of microscopic watching, they discovered they were-no-yes-they actually were, after all, really and truly quite satisfied. Eros-Eureka. But nothing more seemed to happen. Seeking the cause of the inactivity, the London County Council, Scotland Yard and any others appealed to courteously referred an inquirer to Westminster City Council; and they are, it is now clear, the prime, authentic Rip-

Van Winkles of the piece. At first the Council refused information, then grew willing to vouchsafe, a little, but with the Instruction that they were not to be quoted as having said anything. Yet one sentence must be quoted for its utter sincerity and shining truth. "A point the Council has always attached great importance to," impressively declared this Deliberative Body, "is that they should not proceed too hastily."

A "Rehearsal," "It may still be some time before Eros is back?" "Oh, yes," said the Council with simplicity. Though the Transport Ministry states that the disposition of Piccaduly Circus is settled and approved, Westminster Council declares it is not. The Department was warned that the Council disagreed with them. "Well," said the Department, "even though the site of the island in the Circus has been determined, it has yet to be seen where the statue will go on the island." Westminster Council is going to resolve this point by putting up a lath and canvas profile of the god. He will be tried, no doubt, in thirty-four different positions, and the six other interested parties. invited to inspect each one of them at their leisure. Following that. the real figure will be fetched home if anyone remembers where Society's First Annual Report.

LADY INSPECTOR'S WORK.

The report of the Society for the Protection of Children for period ended November 14 is as under:-

The Society was constituted on January 21, 1930, at a meeting held under the chairmanship of Sir Clementi, K.C.M.G. Aims and Objects, as laid down by the Constitution, are printed on the last page of this report.

tee was to raise sufficient funds to admit of the Society engaging the services of an Inspector. The Government contributed a sum of $3,000 and by the end of April the generous response of those to whom the Society appealed for assistance produced a sum which justified the Committee in engaging an Inspector and equipping an gult of the publicity thus obtained there will be a great increase in the number of cases reported and that it will be necessary in the near future to engage the services of an additional Inspector.

Your Committee feels that it is desirable for the time being engage only women as Inspectors, as it is believed that they more readily gain access to the homes those concerned and that they are more capable of advising in matters of child welfare than men.

Your Committee has given much Consideration to the subject of the treatment of juvenile offenders.

In answer to questions asked by the Hon. Dr. Kotewall, the Colonia Secretary stated that during year 1929 the number of boys under sixteen years of age brought before the Magistrates was 985 and the number of girls of like age 137.

It was stated that such children under 16 years of age, while being detained at the Police Court or at the Gaol awaiting trial, were detained in company with adult offenders, and that (unless bail had been found) they were placed in the dock with adult offenders.

Your Committee feels that there is great danger of the mind of the youthful offender being contaminated by contact with older delinquents.

Your Committee has had under consideration a Bill drafted by Mr Hazlerigg making provision for the institution of Juvenue Courts, the segregation of youthful offenders before and during trial, the appointment of probation officers charged with the duty of supervising youthful offenders, released on probation, and the substitution of custody in a place of detention to be provided under the Bill for imprisonment as now inflicted.

Earl of Inchcape's Suggestions.

Delegates to the Imperial Conference were the guests at dinner at the Hotel Victoria on October 14 of the British Chamber Commerce, the Federation Industries Chamber of Shipping of United Kingdom. The Earl Inchcape, proposing, in the absence of Sir Arthur Sutherland, Commonwealth of British Nations, said that unless the national expen- ed. diture was reduced, catastrophe was bound to follow. "I may in some quarters be de- section of the public that the Domnounced when I venture to say that, inions have come to the Im ed into extravagant and unprofitif the manufacturers of this coun- perial Conference with the inten- able channels. try are to be put in a position to tion of taking all they can get and compete in foreign markets, wages giving nothing in return. PEARCE MASTERLY.

[The Club at the close of the first day's play are 67 runs behind the Army's total with half their wickets in hand].

The first day's play in the triangular cricket tournament between the Club and the Army concluded with the honours more or less even, with the Club holding what might be a useful position.

Poor fielding in no small way contributed to the Navy's double century. A forcing innings for 48 by L/Cpl Fry and a restrained knock for 79 by Lieut, Haslewood proved a happy partnership in view of the failure of the later batamen, H. Owen Hughes returned the excellent figures of 6 wickets for 41

T. E. Pearce and G. R. More were associated in a bright partnership after two wickets had fallen cheaply, and the former is still undefeated with 62 to his credit.

The news that Mr.

Rowing. Reginald McKenna's two sons are at Cambridge, one, like his father, rowing and the other playing Rugby, recalls one of the most remarkable feats in the annals of cars-

Mr. McKenna was at Trinity Hall, which in those days was fumous as a rowing college. He took to the oar (as did almost cvery man who went to "The Hall') and soon achieved fame. He came into the zenith of his athletic power in 1887, when he rowed bow in the Cambridge crew which beat Oxford by 21/2 lengths (that being the famous year when the Oxford No. 7 broke his our at Barnes Bridge). Then came the May Races. He was in the Trinity Hall first boat which retained the "Headship of the River," says the Evening Standard.

Far better was to come from the College, as at Henley Regatta the crew carried off five of the events, a record for a club which is never likely to be besten. The telegrams sent from Henley to Trinity Hall are still retained by the College, framed and kept in the porter's lodge. McKenna rowed in the two most important of those crows, the Grand and the

It is noteworthy that although Mr. McKenna was so intimately connected with Trinity Hall his sons have gone to Trinity College; but this often happens in these days largely because of the long waiting lists which most of the colleges have.

NATIONAL CLUB WANTED.

Of the formation of lawn tennis clubs there seems to be no end, writes H. R. McDonald in the Evening News. Summer clubs, Winter clubs, cheap clubs, dear clubs, big clubs, and small clubs, but the ideal club has yet to be

In the whole of England there is no club with a really national outlook; many clubs only seem to cater for snobs; in others the social side is always obtruding on the demands of the game; everywhere cliques retard progress.

Little Connection. Most of the small clubs can be dismissed as having very little connection with lawn tennis; they E. F. Buttress (Club), Lt. Napier are simply centres where pleasant Summer evening can be

There is often little room for the earnest youngster who desires to make a name at the game. Only the other day a young man, who is in a hurry to make good at lawn tennis, was telling me how difficult it was for him to get the leading players in a well-known Surrey club to give him a single because he once happened to beat one of the "heads."

There ought to be some central club in London run directly under the auspices of the Lawn Tennis Association which players of promise, young and old, could join at a nominal fee if their tennis credentials, were approved by committee of management with the best interests of the game a

As things stand at present the great majority of our players have to snatch what few opportunities they can for play during the long winter months on indifferent hard courts, entirely dependent on the vagaries of our fickle climate and on short rations of light in ever darkening days.

Adaptation Usually Fairly Good.

OUTSTANDING.

New York, Oct. 18. The dramatisation of novels is a persistent vice of playwrights and usually is a thankless task. The results are sometimes interesting, rarely ever satisfying, writes Jack

Four plays presented within the past month have been adapted from novels, two of which were best sellers. They are "A Farewell to Arms," arranged by Laurence Stallings from Ernest Hemingway's novel; "Mr. Gilhooey." an adaptation of Liam book: "Bad Girl," which brought physical body. fame to Vina Delmar, adapted by Miss Delmar and Brian Marlow; frustration in their romance at much strain upon credibility. Kenyon Nicholson's dramatisation the end of the war, with the girl's "Stepdaughters of War," a. pseudo-sensational novel of women in the world war by Helen Zenna.

As sometimes happens, the least pretentious production of the four -that of "Bad Girl"-resulted in the most satisfying play. This can be accounted for it partly because "Bad Girl" as a novel was not a highly imaginative piece of work, being more in the nature of a stenographic report of life among New York's middle classes. Some of the success, possibly rauch of it, is due to the persuasive acting of Miss Sylvia Sidney and Paul Kelly in the leading
